

Postcards From Camp: Water & Wellness

Varied types of microalgae flourish in this colorful network of shallow, salty lagoons at the neck of the Crimean Peninsula between the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov. This natural color image portrays the unnaturally strange colors of the area known as Sivash, which is nicknamed the “putrid sea” because the algae in some of the lagoons produce a rotten smell.

Putrid Sea, Landsat 8 image acquired Sept. 5, 2014
Credit: USGS Earth as Art Collection 4

---

---

---

---

Learn more about Camp Landsat at <https://landsat.gsfc.nasa.gov/camp-landsat>